The “Magic Box” – that’s what it was referred to when my husband first brought this idea to me. Full disclaimer – we have known Anthony Messano for years and trust him, so we had no reason to discount what he was saying about this product. He provided us with a lot of data and testimonials of customers regarding savings, so we went ahead and had the unit installed.

We noticed an immediate savings, and during the hot and humid summer months here in the Southeast, noticed a marked decline in our electric bill – ranging from $40-$60 per month; having the “magic box” took away the “cringe factor” of opening up my electric bill during the summer. Anthony has been kind enough to provide us with updated analyses of our savings based on our usage, which can vary greatly due to circumstances, so we always have an idea as to how much electricity we are using and how much we are saving due to this device. I do not know of another device that’s so easily installed that is so maintenance free that provides for such savings.

In our home, we are strictly electric, so any potential for savings is welcome. The “magic box,” (USES®), has really helped us manage our usage and budget for expenses accordingly. I would highly recommend this device for anyone looking for a long-term savings solution.
