Active Radiant Catalysis Eliminates Viruses

Hello,

For many years Power Shaver has assisted our customers with electrical power conditioning, surge protection and energy cost reduction with a reputation of quality and performance. These Power Shaver conditioning systems are a valuable asset to our customers because of our unique USES® technology that eliminates electrical interference and equipment damage while substantially reducing their electrical consumption and cost.

Now, because of the worlds new reality brought about by the COVID -19 and other viral threats, our customers in all industries but especially those in, education, health care, food service, tour bus, mass transportation and all hospitality services will need to make changes in how business is conducted. The installation of a proven air and surface purification system that will insure employee and customer safety in the years to come will be a necessity and will provide the confidence that businesses are implementing the best measures to reduce the possibility of spreading deadly viruses. Simply wearing masks and washing your hands are only part of a safety solution.

Because of this necessity, Power Shaver offers Active Radiant Catalysis, (ARC®) a unique Photocatalytic technology, that safely eliminates viruses and other pathogens in the air and on surfaces in buildings and vehicles. ARC® will assure customer safety and protect the economic viability of your business and when combined with the Power Shaver USES® Energy Saving System, the reduced cost of electricity will accommodate the cost of both systems and a short return on investment period.

Power Shaver, in addition to power conditioning, also specialize in the application of proven custom air purification systems in the commercial and residential indoor air quality industry. For the last sixteen years Power Shaver has maintained its allegiance with the premier air purification technology manufacturers. We are trained, able and eager to assist you with the proper implementation of your extremely important ARC® public safety investment.

Please take a moment to consider the following information and contact your local Power Shaver representative to discuss the next step regarding your unique indoor air and surface purification safety system. Your Power Shaver air purification system will be a valuable asset in accommodating the manner in which you conduct business and maintain safe relations with your employees, customers, and family.

Sincerely,

John Knapp
